FRESHMEN.

Günstige Fluthen
Tragen die Guten,
Fördern die Braven,
Sicher zum Hafen;
Und ein harmonisch vorklingendes Lied
Schließt sich das Leben dem edlen Gemüth.

Männlich zu leiden,
Kraftvoll zu meiden,
Kühn zu verachten,
Bleib unser Trachten!
Bleib unser Kämpfen in eherner Brust
Und des unsträflichen Willens bewußt!

OF ADMISSION.

1. No Student shall be admitted into the Freshmen class, unless he be accurately acquainted with the grammar of both the Greek and Latin tongues, including such rules of prosody as may be applicable to such of the Poets as he is to be examined upon; be master of Cæsar's Commentaries, except the last book; of the Orations of Cicero against Catiline and for the Poet Archias; of the first six books of Virgil's Æneid; of Sallust; of the Gospel according to St. Luke and St. John, and the Acts of the Apostles; of Jacob's Greek Reader; of the first three books of Xenophon's Anabasis, and the first three books of Homer's Iliad. He shall also be able to translate English into grammatical Latin: and shall be well versed in the first four rules of Arithmetic; the rule of three, direct and inverse; vulgar and decimal fractions, and the extraction of the square and cube root; and Algebra as far as the end of simple equations.

2. The Students admitted shall be ranged alphabetically, until the next intermediate examination, after which they shall be seated with reference to their respective merits, in the manner hereafter designated.

3. Every Candidate admitted in the Freshmen class, and every Student, at the commencement of the academical year, shall write, in the Matriculation Book of the College, his own name, and the name and place of abode of his Father or Guardian.

4. None but matriculated Students shall be allowed to attend the classes upon any pretence whatsoever, without the special permission of the Board of Trustees.

5. No Student shall be admitted into an upper class without being master of the previous part of the course.

6. No Student shall be admitted from any other College without being duly qualified, nor without a certificate from such College of his good standing.

7. The annual tuition fee of each Student shall be ninety dollars, to be paid at the commencement of each academic year.
